Mr. Mellon Encourages.
And Too Cheap Wheat.
The Erratic Atom.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1920 by King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

THERE IS COMFORT in Secretary Mellon's statement that the new tariff will not injure United States business or delay business recovery. Mr. Mellon knows business, never expresses opinions lightly. It should be remembered that in all our history an increase in tariff rates never has failed to increase prosperity.

The worst thing about this tariff is the fact that Congress talked about it for fifteen months, every day of discussion damaging business.

MR. LODGE, of the Federal Reserve Board talks reassuringly, but voices talk more loudly.

Uncle Sam has a deep pocket. It would be foolish to take the short side against him. But it is hard, even for the richest country in the world, to conquer "supply and demand."

DR. COMPTON, of Chicago University, "looking inside of the atom," finds a new electron arrangement.

The atom is not an infra-microscopic solar system, with negatively charged electrons going about the positively charged nucleus in fixed orbits.

Electrons group themselves inside the atom about as they please, like raindrops in a cloud, sometimes nearer, sometimes farther, sometimes shooting off into space, producing radio-active energy, as raindrops fall from clouds to earth producing fertility.

AVIATION ADVANCES, thanks to young people to whom flying seems quite natural.

Charles Cary Rumsey, 20-year-old Harvard sophomore flew from Hicksville Aviation Country club on Long Island, to New London, Conn., picked up a classmate, brought him back for lunch on Long Island, then flew to Rumsey, N. Y., to watch a baseball game.

WHAT WOULD surprise his grandfather, E. H. Harriman, who rebuilt the Union Pacific, and his great grandfather, Dr. Walter Cary, of Buffalo, N. Y., who used to drive Secretary of State Steward to country fairs on his coach, the four horses usually at a gallop.

From the galloping horses to a monoplane is a long step.

NEW JERSEY COLLEGE for Women young ladies divide on the choice between "marriage and a career." Romantic freshmen girls vote for marriage 3-to-1. Seniors, after four years of college life, vote 3-to-1 for a career.

MANY SENIORS will change when opportunity comes. There is a husband, but not a career, for every nice girl.

The serious fact is that college girls when they do marry have a few children or none. To marry for a living or amusement is poor business.

ADOLPH ZUKOR, important moving picture man, spent the night at the White House and told President Hoover: "We find no cause for complaint in any part of our country."

With his 1,563 theaters Mr. Zukor reaches small towns and big cities, and his receipts reflect conditions. He says they are good.

JAMES GODWIN ILL

James Godwin of West Eighth street is seriously ill at the home of his sister, Mrs. James Phillips in Akron. His daughters, Mrs. Donald Stoffel and Miss Dolores Godwin, were called to his bedside Sunday. Mrs. Frank E. Campbell of Lincoln avenue, a sister of Mr. Godwin, accompanied by her husband and Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Godwin and son, John, of East Ninth street, also spent Sunday at the Phillips home.

Fatalities.

By The Associated Press.
Traffic accidents cost the lives of eight Ohioans over the weekend.

Michael McKelvey, 21, a nephew of the late Michael Owens, Toledo glass manufacturer, was killed and three others were hurt as two automobiles collided in Toledo. At West Jefferson, Mrs. Anna Kilbury, 50, of Delaware, was killed and her husband, Leunie, 50, was injured fatally, when their automobile skidded and overturned.
The husband died in a Columbus hospital today. Ellwood Lou-den, another passenger, was hurt seriously.

Mrs. Elizabeth Ruhlman, 61, of Mason, died from a fractured skull suffered in a collision of two machines near Hamilton. At Orrville, four-year-old Evert Chaney, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett L. Chaney, was killed when a car struck his coaster wagon.

Driver Is Arrested.
Miss Silvia Skala, 25, was killed and three others injured in an automobile collision in Cleveland. The driver of Miss Skala's car was held on a charge of failing to make a boulevard stop.

Frank McQue, 29, New Boston steel worker, was killed and Homer Jenkins, 20, New Boston, was hurt seriously today when their automobile overturned near Lucas-ville.

Frank M. Lewis, 58, stationary engineer, was dead today at Cincinnati from injuries suffered yesterday when he was struck by a hit-skip motorist.

ABSECON, N. J., June 23.—Mayor Anthony M. Ruffo, Jr., of Atlantic City, and three other persons were killed today when an automobile was struck by a shore-bound Philadelphia-Atlantic City express on a grade crossing here.

Ruffo, who was 52, was identified by papers in his pocket.
The other dead are:
John Wiley, 52, his wife, Lillian,
10, of Ventnor, and Margaret C.
Siraucsa, 37, of Ventnor, widow of Stephen Siraucsa, a brother of Mayor Ruffo's wife and aunt of Assemblyman Anthony J. Siraucsa, of Atlantic City.

Wreckage strewn 100 yards
The automobile, Mayor Ruffo's car, was struck squarely in the center by the southbound Pennsylvania Railroad train. The wreckage was strewn over the tracks for more than 100 yards, and the bodies so mangled that identification was almost impossible.

So terrific was the crash that the engine of the flier was disabled, and it was necessary to send another engine from Atlantic City to draw the train into the station.
Assemblyman Anthony J. Siraucsa, of Atlantic City, nephew of Mayor Ruffo, whose sister-in-law died in the crash, was at first believed one of the victims.

Mayor Ruffo, reputed to be extremely wealthy, was a powerful political figure at the shore resort, where there have been several efforts to oust him. He had just finished a short rest he took after being acquitted by an Atlantic county petit jury recently of charges of illegal practices in connection with the placing of the municipal insurance.

GAINS REPLACE
MARKET LOSSES

By The Associated Press.
NEW YORK, June 23.—Losses of $1 to $5 a share were replaced by gains of similar extent on the New York stock exchange today, after the latest wave of liquidation swept violently over the market
during the early hours of trading.
Stocks were sold in blocks of 10, 000 to 40,000 shares during the first few minutes of trading, but trading turned extremely dull after midday.

AUTOISTS FORFEIT BONDS
John J. Morris of Midland and Debert Montgomery of Lisbon forfeited bonds of $7 each when they failed to appear before Municipal Judge Harry Brokaw today to answer traffic violation charges.
William Grimm, also charged with having driven through a red signal in East End, paid a fine of $1 and costs.

OCEAN FLIER
READY TO HOP

Kingsford-Smith Plans
To Take Off
Tuesday.

DUBLIN, June 23.—Captain
Charles Kingsford-Smith, the Australian aviator, plans to take off from the Port Marnock runway for his flight to the United States about 5 o'clock tomorrow morning (midnight Monday, E. S. T.).

Captain Kingsford-Smith has been waiting here for more than two weeks but has postponed his attempt repeatedly because of bad weather somewhere over the Atlantic ocean.
At first he planned to take off from Curragh, where there is a long runway, but later he chose Port Marnock for its even longer runway and considered that he could take a greater load of fuel and be assured of getting off the ground.

DRY LEADERS
SEEK FUNDS IN APPEALS HERE

Dr. Moore, J. E. White,
Rev. W. J. Zuck
Speak.

TALK IN PULPITS

Former Mayor Schreiber Visits Church in East End.

Funds with which to carry on a campaign of law enforcement observance were collected in four East Liverpool churches Sunday by Anti-Saloon League leaders in a field day visit.

Dr. E. J. Moore of Columbus, a former superintendent of the Ohio league, spoke in the First Church of Christ, Sunday morning while Attorney James A. White, also of Columbus, another former state superintendent and aid to the late Wayne B. Wheeler, occupied the pulpit of the First Methodist Episcopal church. Rev. W. J. Zuck, of Columbus, treasurer of the league, spoke at the First Baptist church last night and V. A. Schreiber of Canton, former mayor of East Liverpool and superintendent of the Canton district, appeared at the Second Presbyterian church.

Fight Not Ended.
"The wettest place in Ohio now is drier than the driest place in the state when it was wet," Moore declared. "A woman asked me the other day why the dry law was not enforced. I replied by asking her way the law against theft is not being enforced. Stealing is quite general everywhere, yet none would ask for the repeal of the law against it."

"There never was a more popular law than the Eighteenth amendment when it was legally and regularly placed in the United States Constitution. The Christian people were especially elated and gave thanks to God. They assumed the attitude that 'it is finished,' but they were wrong. For 10 years the proponents of prohibition have fought propaganda against the amendment and this fight is not over yet."

"Constantly we have to discount reckless statements against the dry cause. One of these was that the Ohio penitentiary was filled with violators in the fire last April. As a matter of fact there were but 91 persons within the walls for such convictions. We must discount the wrong statements that are being made to the rising generation who do not know the harm of the saloon-era. The law must be maintained to guarantee for them a safe future."

Compared Wet and Dry Years.

White in his address at the Methodist Episcopal church compared the Saturday night crowd in East Liverpool with that in the pre-prohibition days.

"I never saw a larger and more orderly crowd in the Diamond on Saturday night as I walked about it," he said. "I did not even smell liquor and I was smelling for it."
He recalled having spoken here during the local option campaign
when the late Rev. Dr. J. C. Taggart and Rev. T. F. Lane "acted as policemen to keep the crowd orderly."

"The difference in liquor used now and in the past is the difference between freight cars and salt cans by which it was then and is being brought into communities."

"Industry is coming up with Henry Ford and Thomas Edison against liquor and for the Eighteenth amendment."

BUS CASES SET
NEXT FRIDAY

Charges against George Hamilton and Joseph Tate, drivers for the Nevins bus lines, which have been filed in municipal court, will be heard Friday at 1 p. m. Judge Brokaw announced today following a conference with Defense Counsel B. H. Cochran. Hamilton is charged with having violated an ordinance which prohibits the taking on and discharging of passengers in East Fifth street. A charge of fast and reckless driving has been filed against Tate.

20 CASES GO
TO GRAND JURY

LISBON.—A special session of the Columbiana county grand jury opened here today. About 20 cases will be investigated, 75 witnesses having been called for examination. The jury is expected to complete its work Tuesday or Wednesday.

LINDY'S SON BORN IN MORROW HOME

Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are the parents of a son born Sunday at Englewood, N. J., in the home where the child's mother, the former Anne Morrow, was born. The baby weighs seven and three-quarters pounds. Mrs. Lindbergh became a mother on her 24th birthday.

Baby Born Sunday
In Morrow Home,
Englewood.

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., June 23.—
Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh are the parents of a son.
The baby, weighing seven and three-quarters pounds was born at 2:15 p. m. eastern standard time yesterday in the home where his mother, the former Anne Morrow was born. She became a mother on her 24th birthday.

Aside from the statement of the baby's birth and his weight, no details of the event were forthcoming from the household of Mrs.
Lindbergh's parents, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, except the statement that mother and baby were resting comfortably.

News of the arrival of the Lindbergh heir spread rapidly to all parts of the country and to foreign shores and within a short time a parade of messengers with congratulatory messages and bearing flowers began to arrive at the Morrow home. Radio stations interrupted their programs to broadcast news of the event which has been awaited with lively interest for several weeks.

A name had not been announced
for the new arrival but Charles A.
Lindbergh, Jr., for his father or Dwight Morrow Lindbergh after his grandfather were mentioned as probable choices.

Preparations which had been made for Mrs. Lindbergh's reception in a New York hospital were cancelled several days ago and hospital equipment and two nurses were installed in the Morrow home.

The arrival of messengers trooping up the drive to the house was

Oliver Lance of Clinton Sustains Scalp Injuries in Lincoln
Highway Accident.

CHESTER.—Oliver Lance, 61, of Clinton, Pa., sustained injuries to his scalp Sunday afternoon when his automobile plunged over an embankment on the Lincoln highway, 12 miles east of Chester and turned over.
He was taken to the East Liverpool hospital where he was attended by Dr. C. A. Shafer of Chester.
The accident occurred when the motor car, striking a rut in the pavement, swerved out of the driver's control.

Melville D. Post, 59, Story Writer, Dies

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., June 23.—Melville D. Post, 59, a well-known short story writer, died today in a hospital here.

While riding a horse on June 10 at his country estate near here, Post was stricken suddenly and was brought to a hospital here. Blood transfusions improved his condition, but he suffered a relapse last Thursday.

Post was a prolific contributor to American literature. The scenes of many of his works were laid in his native hills of West Virginia. He was especially noted for his mystery stories, among them his "Uncle Abner" series and "Walker of the Secret Service."

$1,000 FIRE
HITS CHURCH

Defective Wiring
Blamed for Thompson Hill Fire.

Fire, believed to have been caused by defective electric wiring, caused damage estimated at $1,000 to the Primitive Church of Christ in Thompson avenue today at 5:30
a. m.

The blaze started in the basement near the furnace and ate its way into the belfry of the two-story frame structure. The fire was discovered by a milk deliveryman who ran four squares to the Central fire station to give the alarm.
Three streams of hose were brought into play in extinguishing the blaze.

Today's fire is the sixth at the church within four years.

J. W. MOORE'S
JOB AFFECTED
BY PROPOSAL

Solicitor Stevenson
Mails Ordinance
Copies.

ACTION TONIGHT

Directors of Safety
And Service
Urged.

An ordinance separating the offices of director of public service and public safety and creating two positions in place of one, has been prepared by City Solicitor W. S.
Stevenson for consideration at tonight's meeting of city council.

Stevenson said the proposal was mailed to members of council upon orders of the ordinance committee, consisting of Councilmen Ray T. Adam, J. R. Chambers and George A. Hughes.

"A note was left on my desk asking that I draw up this ordinance," Stevenson said today.

The proposed measure repeals ordinance No. 1932, passed on June 12, 1925, combining the office of director of public service and safety, which became effective January 1, 1926, when Mayor Ralph C. Benedum assumed office for his first term. John W. Moore was the first director of public service and public safety.

No salaries are fixed for either of the places in the proposed ordinance, a blank space having been left to be filled in at the time that the ordinance is considered. The duties of the director of public service and public safety "shall be prescribed by statute and by ordinance of the city of East Liverpool," the ordinance reads.

Salary of the director of public service before the two offices were combined was $1,500 a year, while the safety director was paid $480 a year. The salary of the director of public service and public safety was $1,500 a year but this was recently increased to $2,400.

DR. JOHNSTON,
LISBON DIES

Funeral Services for Retired Physician Will Be Held Tuesday
At 1:30 p. m.

LISBON.—Dr. William McCandless Johnston, 77, retired physician died in his home, 402 East Lincoln way, Sunday morning, following a seven months' illness.

Born at Candor, Washington county, he later lived in Clinton, Allegheny county.

He graduated from the medical school of Anna Arbor College, Mich.
in 1874 and in 1876 from the Cleveland Medical College.

He started his practice in Sewickley and lived there until 1901 when he was appointed warden of the Western penitentiary in Pittsburgh. He served eight years in this last capacity and upon retiring moved to Lisbon, where he practiced medicine till a short time before his death.

During the Spanish-American war he was major surgeon of the Fourteenth regiment, Pennsylvania National Guard, at Fort Meade. Dr.
Johnston was a member of the Se-wickley lodge of Masons and of the Lisbon Kiwanis Club.

He leaves besides his wife, four daughters, Mrs. Guy M. Gray and Mrs. Chambers Kishler of Greenville, Pa.; Mrs. Charles A. Wilson of Thornburg and Mrs. Charles B.
Holmes of New York City; three granddaughters, and one grandson.

Funeral services will be held at his home Tuesday at 1:30 p. m. in charge of Rev. L. M. Cameron, pastor of the United Presbyterian church. The body will be taken to Paris, Pa. for burial.

NAVAL TREATY
GETS APPROVAL

Senate Foreign Relation Committee
Votes, 16 to 4.

By The Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, June 23.—The senate foreign relations committee today approved the London naval treaty.
By the 16 to 4, the committee ordered it reported to the senate.
Senators Johnson, Republican
California, and Shipstead, Farmer
Labor, Minnesota, announced today they would submit minority reports. The overwhelming support for the treaty in the committee was believed to insure ratification of the pact when it is taken up by the senate in special session.

SOCIAL AFFAIRS

PALMS, ferns and summer flowers decorated the First Methodist Episcopal church Saturday afternoon at 3:30, when Miss Martha Elizabeth Hawkins became the bride of James Rogers Bachtel of Canton. The ring ceremony was performed by the bride's father and pastor of the church, Rev. Warren O. Hawkins. D. D. Miss Helen Gamble presided at the organ and, preceding the ceremony, played Schubert's "Serenade" and "Vorspiel" by Wagner. Rev. Charles R. Loney, assistant pastor of the church, sang "At Dawning" by Bond, and "Because" by Testa-macher. The Bridal March from Lohengrin and, during the ceremony, "I Love You Truly," were played by Miss Gamble.

Miss Ruth Delrick and Miss Rachel Boyce were the bridesmaids, and John Hawkins, a brother of the bride, served as best man. The ushers included John McGonigal of Canton, Paul E. Ewing of Pittsburgh, Clarence E. Scarr of Newark and Kernet Stevenson of East Liverpool.

The bride was given in marriage by Frank Crook, a friend and neighbor of the family. She was groomed in a period style apple green point d'esprit costume with hat to match. She carried a bouquet of roses and baby breath. She is a graduate of the East Liverpool High school with the class of 1929.

The maids of honor wore pastel shaded chiffon gowns, with hat to match and carried roses and lilies of the valley.

The bridegroom is a son of Mrs. O. H. Bachtel of Canton. He graduated from Mount Union and Andover colleges, where he is a member of the Alpha Tau Omega fraternity. He is associated with the Bachtel Lumber company of Canton, O.

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the home of the bride's parents in West Fifth street. Covers were arranged for 50 guests at the buffet dinner.

Mr. and Mrs. Bachtel left Saturday night for a honeymoon in Washington, D. C., New York City and other eastern cities. After July 1 they will be at home at 823 Eleventh street NW, Canton.

Out-of-town guests included the bridegroom's mother, Mrs. O. H. Bachtel, and sister, Miss Ruth Bachtel of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bachtel and children, Harry Holmes and Joe Van Bachtel, Mrs. Ruth Fox and Misses Kathryn Bachtel and Mary Lee Hall and John McGonigal, all of Canton; Mr. and Mrs. Louis Bachtel of Akron; Mr. and Mrs. Carl Anderson, Mrs. Roy Allan and Mrs. Edgar Thompson of Youngstown; Mr. and Mrs. Martin Neff of Canfield; Paul Exline of Pittsburgh and Clarence E. Starr of Newark, O.

A meeting of the Sherwood, Westfield and LaCroft Community league will be held at 8 o'clock tonight in the LaCroft United Brethren church instead of Tuesday night as previously announced. The program will include guitar selections by Cecil Boyd and Fred Yates, and banjo and piano numbers by Paul Orr.

Members of the Twin City club met recently with Mrs. Hazel Roberts at the home of Mrs. Kathryn Fiber in Arthur avenue, Wellsville. Music and fancywork were the pastimes, following the business session conducted by the president, Mrs. Kathryn Fiber.

The hostess was assisted in serving refreshments by Mrs. Kathryn Fiber, covers being arranged for 10 guests.

Mrs. May Asheld of Dresden avenue will be hostess at the next meeting, the date to be announced later.

A luncheon-bridge party will be featured by the women of the Highland Country club Wednesday afternoon at 1:30 in the club house at Stop 55 on the Youngs town and Ohio railroad. Golf will also be played during the morning and afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Pietsch, who were recently married, were surprised at their home in Alton street Friday night by friends, who tendered a miscellaneous shower. The social hours were spent with music and games, after which refreshments were served by Mesdames Frank Kennedy, Elmer Dawson and Pearl Butcher. A color scheme of pink and white was used in the appointments, covers being arranged for 16 persons.

Mr. and Mrs. W. O. McDonald entertained with a 6 o'clock dinner Thursday night at their home in Ridgeway avenue, honoring Mrs. Paul Miller of Gowanda, N. Y. Sweet peas and roses centered the table, at which covers were arranged for 14 guests.

Following the dinner the guests attended a baseball game at Patterson field and visited at Rock Springs, park, Chester.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marshall of Niles, and Mrs. Paul Miller of Gowanda, N. Y., were out-of-town guests.

The monthly meeting of the Young Woman's Missionary society was held in Second United Presbyterian church Friday night. Mrs. Maud Fisher McMurray in charge of the program. References to the foreign mission field were read.

Mrs. McMurray discussed "The Spiritual Value of Music." A vocal selection was given by Miss Bernadette Arnold, after which Mrs. James R. Hill of the First Presbyterian church, spoke on her recent visit in Palestine and among the missions in Cairo, Egypt.

Hostesses were Misses Anna Martin and Zella Johnston. Refreshments were served for 20 guests.

A picnic will be held Friday, July 18, the place to be announced later.

CERAMIC LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEAGION, junior organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, meeting Friday in the First Church of Christ, presented the following program: Devotionals in charge of Miss Hazel W. Stillwagon, superintendent; talk, "The Gifthood of the Founder of the W. C. T. U.," Mrs. T. P. Ferguson, president of the W. C. T. U.; playlet, "The Philippine Treasure Chests," by six girls; piano selections, Miss Beatrice Bridge.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held at Rock Springs park on July 18.

Refreshments were served by Misses Evelyn Worling and Ruth Rice, assisted by Miss Hazel W. Stillwagon.

An old timers' meeting was held by the Laurel Hill Parent-Teacher association in the No. 9 school house Friday night. The program included childhood reminiscences by William Chamberlin, Joseph Blazer, Wilson Smith, Will E. Smith, Mrs. Homer E. Huff, George Gonzales, Manuel Gonzales, Attorney Frank Groshans, C. A. Gonzales, Clark Thompson and Samuel Sharp. Mr. Sharp gave two readings.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Sinclair and her committee.

Mrs. Carl Wucherer of Cadmus street will be hostess to members of the Golden Eagle club Tuesday night.

A lawn fete will be held at the United Brethren church at LaCroft Tuesday night, under the auspices of the "We Want You" class. The teacher, Mrs. Charles Pierce, is chairman of the committee. Musical selections will be given by the 14-year-old twins, Marian and Miriam Baughman of Wellsville.

On June 28, the twenty-first annual reunion of the Henry and Williams families will be held at the Clarkson grange hall. Miss Nellie McGhie of East Liverpool is secretary of the association.

A PRETTY wedding took place Saturday morning at 11 o'clock, when Miss Muriel Fay Bryan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Bryan of Georgetown, Pa., became the bride of Robert Allan Johnston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Johnston of Washington, Pa. Rev. Charles A. Casick, pastor of the Georgetown Methodist Episcopal church, performed the ceremony in the presence of 16 friends.

The bridesmaids were Miss Flora Lee Nash, a cousin of the bride, who was groomed in green chiffon, and Miss Elizabeth Campbell of Hookstown, who wore blue crepe. The maid of honor was Miss Eunice Abrams of Chester, W. Va., who wore yellow georgette. Thomas as a brother of the bride, served as best man.

The bride was groomed in white georgette and wore a picture hat. She carried pink roses and baby breath.

Following the ceremony a wedding breakfast was served, after which Mr. and Mrs. Johnston left for a honeymoon in Canada and Niagara Falls. After July 1 they will be at home in Washington, Pa., where the bridegroom is employed by the Standard Oil company.

Midnight club members were entertained Friday night by Mrs. William Hanlon in Fifteenth street, Wellsville. A guessing contest was held.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Marshall of Niles, and Mrs. Paul Miller of Gowanda, N. Y., were out-of-town guests.

The monthly meeting of the Young Woman's Missionary society was held in Second United Presbyterian church Friday night. Mrs. Maud Fisher McMurray in charge of the program. References to the foreign mission field were read.

Mrs. McMurray discussed "The Spiritual Value of Music." A vocal selection was given by Miss Bernadette Arnold, after which Mrs. James R. Hill of the First Presbyterian church, spoke on her recent visit in Palestine and among the missions in Cairo, Egypt.

Hostesses were Misses Anna Martin and Zella Johnston. Refreshments were served for 20 guests.

A picnic will be held Friday, July 18, the place to be announced later.

CERAMIC LOYAL TEMPERANCE LEAGION, junior organization of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union, meeting Friday in the First Church of Christ, presented the following program: Devotionals in charge of Miss Hazel W. Stillwagon, superintendent; talk, "The Gifthood of the Founder of the W. C. T. U.," Mrs. T. P. Ferguson, president of the W. C. T. U.; playlet, "The Philippine Treasure Chests," by six girls; piano selections, Miss Beatrice Bridge.

Plans were made for a picnic to be held at Rock Springs park on July 18.

Refreshments were served by Misses Evelyn Worling and Ruth Rice, assisted by Miss Hazel W. Stillwagon.

An old timers' meeting was held by the Laurel Hill Parent-Teacher association in the No. 9 school house Friday night. The program included childhood reminiscences by William Chamberlin, Joseph Blazer, Wilson Smith, Will E. Smith, Mrs. Homer E. Huff, George Gonzales, Manuel Gonzales, Attorney Frank Groshans, C. A. Gonzales, Clark Thompson and Samuel Sharp. Mr. Sharp gave two readings.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Thomas Sinclair and her committee.

Mrs. Carl Wucherer of Cadmus street will be hostess to members of the Golden Eagle club Tuesday night.

A lawn fete will be held at the United Brethren church at LaCroft Tuesday night, under the auspices of the "We Want You" class. The teacher, Mrs. Charles Pierce, is chairman of the committee. Musical selections will be given by the 14-year-old twins, Marian and Miriam Baughman of Wellsville.

She thought:

"I hate saying 'no' again, but 'B.O.' spoils you as a dancing partner."

Yet, to be polite,

She said:

"Too bad I didn't know about the dance sooner. I'm dated up for that night."

Girls always had 'another date' —until he ended 'B.O.'

(Body Odor)

HE KNEW he wasn't popular with girls. But he never suspected why until one day a clerk in a drugstore suggested Lifebuoy to him.

That simple change in toilet soaps changed his whole life! For it ended the fault that had made girls unwilling to go out with him. "B.O.", the polite name for a condition people dislike even to mention—body odor... No more turn-downs now. Girls accept his invitations gladly. He knows the easy way to keep perspiration odorless.

Hot weather no excuse

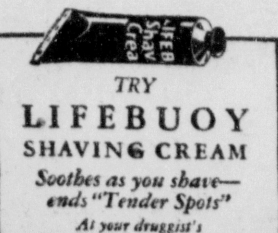

Even if the thermometer is up in the nineties—even if we are perspiring more freely—no need to let "B.O." offend. Just take this simple precaution.

Millions of particular men and women realizing how quickly others notice "B.O.", have switched to Lifebuoy to be safe. And they like this delightful toilet soap more and more every day. Everything about it. Its bountiful, creamy lather—even in hardest water. Its pleasant, extra-clean scent that vanishes as you rinse. The gentle antiseptic lather that cleanses so thoroughly—purifies pores so deeply—removes every trace of "B.O."

What a complexion soap!

Women add a special word of praise for Lifebuoy as a complexion soap. Its bland, deep-cleansing lather gently frees clogged pores of beauty-stifling impurities—freshens dull skins till they glow with healthy radiant loveliness. Adopt Lifebuoy today. LEVER BROS. CO., Cambridge, Mass.

Murder At High Tide

Novel of Mystery . . . By CHARLES G. BOOTH

SYNOPSIS: The wife of the murdered Dan Parados confesses that she attempted to plot his death. She tried to lure two French convicts, who she believed were his enemies, to his home to kill him. The Parados denies killing her husband, and Anatole, Fliques, a detective, relieves her by saying he knows she is not guilty. Fliques suggests to Anatole that he find Caroline Brent, with whom Hunt has fallen in love. Inquiries reveal that no one has seen her for some time. Caroline is not to be found in the house. Police, sensing sinister possibilities, order a thorough search of the island.

Chapter 33
IN THE CIRCLE OF LIGHT
MY heart had turned cold at the gravity of Fliques' tone. As my eyes met his the substance of his thought flashed upon me.
"You are thinking of Le Belafre and Bec?" I ejaculated. "They are here—they may have hold of Caroline—is that what you mean?"
"My friend, I know those little ones," he said gently. "Did I not tell you that the agony of their hatred would drive them here. Liberty to them is a mockery if they cannot turn the iron of their hatred into the body of Jules Lacote. I know Le Belafre and Cicerone Bec."
"Are they here—the island?" I cried. "Do you know they are here?"
"I shall tell you something," he said. "A letter from the French consul at Los Angeles was brought to me this afternoon. It told me that Le Belafre and Cicerone Bec were as far north as Enseneda four days ago."

OWA-TON-NA PROVES A REMEDY WITHOUT EQUAL IN MY CASE

Liver and Gall Trouble Caused Constant Misery Now Feels Like a New Person.

Obstinate troubles without number are proof of Owa-Ton-Na's merits. One of the recent severe cases where Owa-Ton-Na has conquered is that of Mrs. Anna Hershey, R. F. D. No. 5, N. Industry, Ohio. She says: "I can't tell you how much good Owa-Ton-Na has done for me. I was just a nervous wreck, liver, kidneys and stomach were in a terrible condition. Many times I felt so miserable I couldn't get around. I had severe pains in my stomach and it sometimes felt as though my stomach were on fire. Gas would form and cause terrible bloating spells. I would get so dizzy that often I felt it necessary to catch hold of something for fear of falling."

MRS. ANNA HERSHEY

as it has done me more good than anything I have ever taken. You can't afford to be without Owa-Ton-Na. You, too, may have tried many medicines without good results. This fine old Indian Remedy does not contain alcohol or harmful drugs, but acts as a gentle tonic and assists nature in the elimination of the poisons which cause so much suffering and bring about a renewed condition of health. Owa-Ton-Na is sold in East Liverpool at Carnahan's 114 East Sixth Street and East End Stores; also Carnahan's Newell, W. Va. Stores.—Adv.

of the slope. Hunt, take the shore. She may have fallen off the cliff. "We'll all work over to the other side of the island, then back. There's an abandoned village over there somewhere, don't forget. Cover every foot of ground. Use your brains if you meet those birds Le Belafre and Bec. Better take what guns you can find."

"We don't intend to stay here doing nothing," Celia announced. "At least, I don't."
"Nor I," Mrs. Parados said. "I couldn't sit still after what I've done. This is all my fault, but I don't need to remind you of that."
"I shall help," Miss Jahries added.

Manning merely quivered. "My orders are that you remain in the house," Samuels told them. "I have enough on my hands now. If you leave the house you do so on your own responsibilities."
Four or five pistols were available. I did not secure one of them. There were enough torches to go around, however. Celia, Mrs. Parados, and Miss Jahries declared their intention of combing the ground immediately beyond the edge of the developed estate in which the house stood.

Manning, afraid to be left alone in the house, attached herself to Miss Jahries.
As I started at a fast clip down to the beach by way of one of the cave trails, my head and ears were pounding. I arrived at the beach in a matter of seconds.
Not more than a dozen feet of wet sand divided the breakers from the standstone cliff. The beach curved and I followed its arc at top speed, coming to the mouth of The Gut, where I stood, drenched with spray and deafened with sound. Hissing water and an unscalable cliff guarded this . . . de of The Gut.

Coming back, I threw my light along the jetty, into the boat-house, and over the Parados cruiser and the police boat, then along the cement breakwater Parados had built halfway across the mouth of the cove.
A shoulder of rock jutted into the surf at the northwest corner of the cove. It took me ten minutes to get around it to the west beach. Once I thought I was trapped. The water was up to my waist, then to my shoulders. It swept me off my feet and hurled me against the cliff. The water receded and I staggered through.

My head throbbed and after I had touched it I found blood on my hand. The wound did not appear to be deep, however, and I started down the beach. Fortunately the torch was not broken.
Turning, I raced back along the beach, playing the light beam upon the face of the cliff with a view to discovering a trail that would take me to the top.

The trail proved steeper than I had expected and halfway up I had to stop, or I would have fallen from exhaustion. I was losing more blood than I had supposed.
I was on the point of starting up again when a beam of light, evidently from an electric torch, shot out over the top of the cliff in a horizontal direction a little to the right of me.

It vanished, reappeared, vanished; again it reappeared and vanished. Each time the light flashed with the regularity of a signal.
So far as I knew everybody had left the house. The women might have returned, but if they had I could conceive of no reason why they should signal out to sea. Inland, or to me on the beach—that would have been understandable.

"It looks queer," I muttered.
As I pulled myself over the edge of the cliff, the light flashed again—once. A hundred yards south of where I stood was the house. The light had seemed to come from the parapet roof. This time I caught an answering gleam somewhat south of the house and not far off shore.

My first impulse was to approach the roof by way of the outside stair, but I quickly suppressed it. I wanted to see the signaler before he saw me.
Skirting the cypress trees, I made my way to the northwest corner of the house and to the rear door, where I had left my shoes. The door was ajar. I entered, glided across the kitchen to the hall, and arrived noiselessly at the foot of the stair.

EAST END NEWS

FORMER MAYOR V. A. SCHREIBER HITS WET MOVE

Anti-saloon League Aid in Church Pulpit.

GREET'S CHIEF

District Leader Speaks In Presbyterian Edifice.

The millionaires of the country are being influenced to contribute large sums of money in the efforts to repeal the Eighteenth amendment so that their income and corporation taxes may be reduced by the revenue from liquor sold to the American people, V. A. Schreiber, former mayor of East Liverpool and Anti-Saloon League superintendent of the Canton, O., district, declared at the Second Presbyterian church Sunday night.

He came here from Steubenville, O., where he had spoken in the morning at the Hamline Methodist Episcopal church. He was accompanied by Mrs. Schreiber and their son, Arthur. They returned to Canton last night.
In Steubenville he greeted S. P. McNaught, of Columbus, O., who since May 1 has been Ohio superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League. They conferred for two hours Saturday night upon the Buckeye situation. It was the new officials first visit to the Canton district.

Schreiber will attend the session of the Ohio synod of the Presbyterians in Wooster on Wednesday.
Wets Influence Wealth.
"Wealthy men of the country are being assured they will save a total tax to corporations and incomes of $1,250,000,000," he said. Then, of course, if this should occur the American people would have to buy in the aggregate $10,000,000,000 worth of liquor annually. This estimate is supposed to be along the lines of the British liquor sales and tax thereon.

"In a word the wet adherents are willing that this startling sum of money should be extracted from American workmen to the disparagement of their homes that have the luxuries of the moment," he observed. "In the old saloon days the annual bill of the country hardly reached $5,000,000,000. Now it would seem they are planning with the increased population to almost double it."
Europe Fears Prohibition.
In addition to this source of revenue the wet devotees are being aided by European liquor interests.

"They are fearful that their turn will come next should America continue to show the marked good of prohibition. They expect also to profit by the additional sales of liquor that will come to them should the bars be reopened in the United States."
"In the interest of the wet movement officials are being influenced by representatives of organizations seeking to get rid of the Eighteenth amendment. The manufacturers are being further told that with the resumption of the liquor taxes and the lowering of their own that the change would keep 'snoopers' or investigators out of their affairs in the future."

He urged the need of dry sympathizers awakening to the situation and coming out against the methods that are being undertaken to defeat that which they have accomplished against the liquor traffic.

Ballots For Absentees

With the Republican and Democratic primaries but seven weeks away, the Columbiana county board of deputy state supervisors of elections has directed electors' attention to the fact that under the provisions of the Ohio law they have the right to apply for ballots 30 days prior to August 12 if they expected to be absent from their home precinct on election day.

Although changes in the election regulations tighten the restrictions regarding applications, which must be accompanied by an affidavit, Ohio voters should take advantage of the privilege to exercise the suffrage right by mail in the event vacation trips or business demands their absence from the voting zone.

Electors' applications for ballots will be accepted by election chiefs not earlier than 30 days prior to primary day, or as early as Friday night, July 11, and the polls for absentees will remain open until Saturday, August 9, or three days prior to the regular balloting.

Don't disfranchise yourself, vacationists! Apply for ballots.

After a survey of 20,000 pupils, a Northwestern university professor asserts that children have put a vague grasp on the Bible. If he will make a survey of 20,000 of their elders, he might find that the majority of them didn't have even so much as a look-in on it.

Lying in Bed

Dr. Albert Einstein, whose name has become synonymous with the devious processes of abstract thought, conceived the thesis of the reality of space while lying in bed. The unassuming German thinker has placed mankind under obligations to his genius once more. Part of it welcomes a new idea to ponder over; the rest of us welcome the opportunity to argue for longer, undisturbed hours in bed. If Dr. Einstein had an epoch-making idea among his pillows and covers, it is reasonable to suppose that other ideas await only the same provocation to bloom.

Americans have a great predilection for being "up and about." The American tradition is based rather firmly, in fact, on the belief that if one is early there are worms to be caught. Decades of adherence to such a theory have produced a race of tremendous "doers," but, as Bruce Barton observed recently, it is a race with an alarming paucity of thinkers.

Various people, of course, think in various ways. There are some who claim to be in the pink of their mental flower while surrounded with bells, typewriters, riveting hammers, scraping chairs—all the paraphernalia which persons conscious of their nerves escape from as often as possible. Despite numerous exceptions, however, there is still firm support of a quiet environment as most conducive to serious, guided mental processes.

And where can one be more apart from the confusion of the world than in bed? Where indeed is one more immune to disturbance, the distractions of meeting other people and the routine performances of appearing at one's civilized best? This summer when Algernon is inclined to sleep in while the lawn mower stands idle, who knows but that he is building the groundwork for an epochal theory? Yes, indeed. Who knows? Algernon will try to take advantage of that, but mother probably will explain that one has to become a Dr. Einstein before one can remain in bed and think. Such reasoning may account for the shortage of Americans who really are capable of deep thought. Ho hum!

Sanford, manufacturing town in Lancashire county, England, had a "Safety week," during which the number of deaths from accidents jumped from seven to 22. The residents must have been so busy being careful they forgot to watch.

Unlimited Possibilities

Thomas A. Edison finds time occasionally to comment briefly on national affairs. Mr. Edison's evaluations of things which lie outside his highly specialized realm are unusually accurate, reflecting the extraordinary ability he has displayed consistently during a long life of valuable service to mankind. Recently, while commenting on synthetic rubber, wages, the drop in crude rubber prices, big business mergers and other matters, Mr. Edison took occasion to make this statement regarding the national government: "The United States government is the most inefficient big business organization in operation today." In explanation of this observation Mr. Edison said that he did not blame the President, who has proved an able executive, but the vast size of the business itself. President Hoover denoted the same evil when he assumed the responsibilities of his office, and pledged himself to correct it. Mr. Edison does not credit Mr. Hoover with having made any progress toward his ambition, although it is probable that a comprehensive statement would take cognizance of certain work which has been done in the first quarter of the President's term. That Mr. Edison appreciates it is borne out by his statement that he will urge Mr. Hoover to run for reelection. There is a tendency to let the federal government take care of itself. The tendency starts, perhaps, in the smaller governmental units. City governments are notoriously inefficient unless they are checked closely, and there are few people with either the ability or the inclination to become watchers. State governments, too, always are open for improvement, but as the machine becomes larger, the difficulty of keeping it in a state of efficiency increases. President Hoover, whose mind has been trained to look at things in terms of reorganization, was the first incoming president in years to declare himself openly for a policy of greater federal efficiency. Under the type of leadership which he is capable of giving, it can be done. The man who has seen efficiency at work in business recognizes no limit to what might be accomplished in government were it operated by business standards.

Other Editorial Opinions

AN IOWA FEUD.

The senate committee on foreign relations has reported out the nomination of Colonel Hanford MacNider, as American minister to Canada, without recommendation. This course was taken after Senator Smith W. Brookhart had formally protested to the committee that Colonel MacNider, who also comes from Iowa, was "personally objectionable" to him. Senator Brookhart will now attempt to block action on the nomination at this session; and if it comes up, will fight to have it rejected. The practice has been to consult senators with respect to appointments to federal offices within their states; and it has not been customary to appoint postmasters, United States marshals and similar officials who were "personally objectionable" to the senatorial dispensers of patronage to the districts in which they were to serve. Senator Brookhart would extend this practice to federal appointments that concern the United States as a whole. Apparently he forgets that the United States is bigger than any one of its states and that a citizen of any one of those states is at the same time a citizen of the United States. At Ottawa, Colonel MacNider will represent more than Iowa. Attempting to block the confirmation of his nomination because he is "personally objectionable" to another Iowan would be following, under any circumstances, a vicious and untenable doctrine. When it is known that Senator Brookhart's objection to Colonel MacNider's appointment is based on the colonel's refusal to sleep in the same political bed with the senator, what is instantly vicious becomes also ridiculous. The difficulties experienced in obtaining suitable men for our foreign service are great enough, without making it an additional requirement that a man shall be persona grata to so erratic a partisan as Smith W. Brookhart-Detroit Free Press.

ZANE TRACE LOCAL HISTORY AND TRADITION

By J. H. Galbraith

For The Associated Press.

The reference in this column recently to the "Famous Old Road, That Is No More," Zane's Trace, brought an interesting letter from E. E. Grier of Quaker City, Ohio, who says that there are still to be seen on his farm through which the old road ran, parts of the foundation of a drover's tavern that was used before the National Road was built and when great droves of livestock from the Ohio country went over it on the way to the Baltimore and Philadelphia markets. Close by it is a field that was used at the same time as a feeding lot for the use of the drovers to rest and feed their stocks in.

Mr. Grier is secretary of the Putnam Ridge Good Roads association, a name that is derived from the "Old Road That Is No More." The name, he says, is derived from the fact that General Putnam, on his way to take command at Marietta, was the first person to pass over the old trace after it was marked out from Wheeling to Zanesville. He writes that while the National road was being built in eastern Ohio the supervisors of the work and their assistants, used the Zane Trace to reach points on the line of the new road, which in that section of the state paralleled the Trace and was frequently only from one to five miles from it. At this time one of the paymasters employed on the National road work was robbed and killed on the trace between Barnesville and Salesville, his horse being shot from under him by ambush, as he rode along, and it was one of the myths of this neighborhood that a headless horse traversed the ridge there at night for many years thereafter.

It was because Putnam was the first to make use of the old Trace road in that vicinity of land along which it was cut became known as Putnam's Ridge, and the road where it persisted after the National Road was built was called the Putnam Ridge road.

scarcely any accent. He expects some day to be a marine lawyer. I have a mental bet on Charlot.

The variegated crowd of passengers on an ocean liner are at first intensely interesting. Romance, glamour and the flush of excitement are bound up with them. But familiarity brings the inevitable contempt. Withing a few days your own little circle has formed and all the rest become mere persons.

The ship was held up an hour in sailing. The rumor was it was to take movies of a departing dancer, but I am inclined to believe it was the heavy fog, for we nosed out to sea at a snail pace—the dolorous fog horn groaning at minute intervals.

I peeked into the bar to see the rush when the ship reached the three-mile limit. After waiting fifteen minutes, a gentleman sauntered in and ordered a pot of coffee for the lone customer. The truth is, however, that the bon voyage cocktail parties in cabins had left those alcoholically inclined a little bloated.

Midnight sailings have been abandoned on account of these bon voyage celebrations. This boat was scheduled to shove off at 7 in the evening. Most of them are sailing at 10 a. m. or 5 p. m. Two drunks were trundled off our ship in stretchers a very few minutes before the gang plank was lifted. Yip-pee-e-e!

The seasoned voyager does not don evening dress for dinner on the first night out but I always do. It is usually my only chance to show folks I have a double-breasted Tuxedo. From then on my meals consist chiefly of a nibble at a cracker or a peeled grape.

How To Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

UNFAILING and regular action of the heart is essential, not only to comfort, but to life itself. When we have the slightest thing the matter with the heart, then "it seems as though the bottom had dropped out of things." We have a sense of helplessness and fear.

"Angina pectoris" is the term used to describe a sharp pain in the breast, the term is applied to symptoms rather than to any well-marked disease. The ailment is associated with certain diseases which affect the heart or the blood vessels by which the heart is nourished. It may be associated with diseases of the aorta, the great trunk blood vessel which leads directly to the heart. Hardening of the arteries may cause it.

The causes which bring it on may be some infectious constitutional disease. It may follow rheumatism, influenza, diabetes, Bright's disease, typhoid fever or diphtheria. A disease of the blood is a very common cause.

An attack may come suddenly and without warning. It is a most agonizing, vise-like pain in the region of the breastbone, with a sense of constriction of the chest.

The pain extends into the back, arms and shoulders, but particularly into the left arm.

The patient may become stiff and motionless, as though paralyzed, afraid to make the slightest move. The motion produces more agony. The mental distress is almost as bad as the physical pain, for the patient fears each moment is to be his last. Death may actually come during such an attack.

A violent attack may last only a few minutes, but a lesser one may last hours. The pain may come on after eating a hearty meal in which indigestible food was taken.

The spasms are periodical and are brought on by mental excitement, muscular effort, dyspepsia, overeating, exposure to cold, and any sudden shock. Excessive use of coffee or tobacco, or overindulgence in liquor may bring on a spasm.

Needless to say, a doctor is needed during and after the attack. The patient should be examined carefully by a physician to see what is the underlying cause of the trouble. He will probably prescribe certain remedies to carry.

The Reviewing Stand

By TOM T. JONES

NOT many in the city realize that once upon a time the flag of the Southern Confederacy—the "stars and bars"—instead of the stars and stripes flew over East Liverpool. Designated as the rebel emblem during the 60's when the north and the south fought each other as to the rights of the states to secede because of slavery, it was hoisted to the breeze upon McKinley's hill on the afternoon of August 14, 1885, during the tri-state reunion held here to mark the twentieth anniversary of the close of the Civil war.

On that eminence was erected a duplicate of Fort Donelson, Tenn., which had been captured by General Ulysses S. Grant at the outset of his military career in the fighting of the period between 1861 and 1865. The capture of this fortress constituted the spectacular open-air feature of that gathering of soldiers and sailors in East Liverpool for which members of General Lyon Post No. 44, G. A. R. here had been preparing for two years previously.

The reunion of the year before had been held in Steubenville, Ohio. In the down-river city a line of march with 25,000 persons and 10,000 visitors had been expected. Instead the city was overrun by 100,000 visitors. Many of the latter had to leave the city hungry since no food was obtainable. Barrels of ice-water distributed about the streets were depleted of their contents before noon of the day of meeting. Many had to go to the river and drink recklessly from that stream, it is said.

Marked preparations for the similar event in East Liverpool were thus made for days in advance of it. People feared rain on that day. In fact, showers fell on the preceding day. But August 14 dawned clear. Weather conditions were all that could be desired.

But the crowds had been warned by their experience in Steubenville the year before. The preparations for feeding the multitude accordingly were on a more generous scale than was found necessary.

But the people came from Pittsburgh, Pa., and many of the other cities and rural districts within the state. They arrived from Akron, Massillon, Warren and Youngstown, O., and West Virginia points in special trains some of which had as many as 20 coaches.

When the train passed through Salineville, Ohio, that morning 400 persons at the station were unable to get on it. It was necessary to make up another train in Wellsville and return there.

The great parade of the day moved promptly at noon. The grand marshal was the late Col. H. H. Hill, of East Liverpool. His aides were F. G. Croxall, Mitchell McClure, William Brunt and John N. Taylor, of East Liverpool; George B. Aken of Wellsville and George W. McKee of Fredericktown.

The Pennsylvania division was under the command of General R. G. Herron. Contingents were in line from Pittsburgh, Freedom, Beaver Falls, Allegheny and many other cities. The Keystone aggregation had with them many bands and cannon.

General Lyon post, G. A. R. of East Liverpool had 60 men and 10 from other posts in line that day. They were under the command of Thomas Lloyd.

One of the features of the parade was the presence upon a truck of a miniature sloop of war. It was mounted with six guns and manned by six soldiers while drawn by six horses. It made an impressive spectacle.

Then there was a delegation of "Sherman's Bummers" in line. They were mounted upon mules. They indicated how on the march to the sea these soldiers had garnered provisions for the army. Each mule was heavily laden with products of the foraging expedition.

From Lisbon came the Schultz Artillery contingent. They left the county seat at midnight and arrived in East Liverpool just before daylight. They assisted in McGavren gun corps and other organizations in giving the salute of 13 guns at the dawn. Indeed, each gun, it is believed, fired more than 13 volleys on that occasion, East Liverpool residents accordingly arose to war's alarms for the day's festivities.

GRAND ARMY posts from Allegheny and East Liberty, Pa., brought with them cannon that had been made from shells found on the fields of Braddock's defeat and Shiloh. They were mounted on carriages made from wood from the ship St. Lawrence on which Commodore Oliver Hazard Perry began the fight of Lake Erie in the War of 1812.

The flag of the Third regiment, Ohio Volunteer Infantry, was carried by D. G. Albert that day. Those of the Second, Fifth and 115th were also in the parade. That of the Fifth had been captured when Stonewall Jackson surrounded a detachment of General Taylor's men of General Shields' division. It was reclaimed by Mogan Shaw who swam a river with it before rejoining the army of General Fremont.

The Allegheny post of G. A. R. brought two cannon which had been made from shells picked up on the Gettysburg field.

More than 4000 soldiers were fed in the old Jumbo rink where 25 tables had been placed and a lesser number in the Salvation Army hall. Representatives of the latter organization in uniform sold War Cries to the visitors. In all there were 252 pieces of music in the line of march on that occasion.

In the early afternoon a brief meeting was held in the fifth street rink. It was presided over by N. A. Frederick, one of the members of the G. A. R., who took part in the activities of that memorable day. George Gray sang "Mamma's Baby Boy." The late Rev. J. C. Taggart made an extemporaneous speech. Commander R. B. Brown told of buying the site of ground for the Ohio department upon which General Grant had been born.

Two other speakers were Joseph Benson Foraker, then a candidate for governor of Ohio and Major William McKinley, at the time representing the district in congress. The meeting was adjourned to witness the sham battle and the capture of Fort Donelson. It was commanded by Thomas Lloyd of the local G. A. R. He had as his second in command S. S. Cope, of Wellsville, with George B. Aken, Harry Cope, the latter of Broadale, also assisting him. The Schultz and McGavren batteries were with him behind the ramparts.

THE attack, witnessed from Thompson hill by 10,000 persons, was spectacular. It was lead by Commander Gerwig of Pittsburgh, Pa. Skirmishers began the fighting. Guns were captured and retaken. Prisoners taken, managed to escape. In the end the fort was seized and the flag lowered and the stars and stripes momentarily uplifted. Later the fort was blown up. The Pittsburgh visitors took home with them the captured rebel flag.

Among the notable visitors to East Liverpool was Rev. William Pittenger, of Bordentown, N. J., who during the war became famous by capturing a locomotive and rushing it through the rebel lines for 160 miles with 100 men. Twenty of them were finally captured and eight executed. His experiences were written in an outstanding volume.

Remembering the experiences of the preceding year in Steubenville almost every young man in East Liverpool that day had a sandwich stand. Buns in carload lots were imported the preceding days. The soldiers came in expected numbers. But the visitors failed to arrive as expected. Consequently there was an over production of buns on hand. Just before the big battle the price came down to a penny a sandwich. Later two were given for that minuscule sum. Then a bushel was offered for a dime. The next day merchants had the stands cleared from the streets. The remaining buns were hauled to Ravine street and dumped in a depression there. Farmers hearing of the situation came and hauled the food away in bags for their dogs. Thus the Battle of East Liverpool was a notable one. It served to bring down the rebel flag and the price of sandwich buns hereabouts. The latter, however, rose again.

Four thousand workers were affected by the recent strike at Puertollano, Spain, which has been settled following a five per cent wage increase.

CLAUDE ALLISTER HAS 14 FILM LAND JOBS IN 15 MONTHS
English Actor Goes To Hollywood From Broadway

By ROBBIN COONS
HOLLYWOOD — The success of Claude Allister in the talkies has given pause to many a newly arrived English actor, and suggest to each a paraphrasing of Hamlet's noted predicament: "To be or not to be, that is the question." Allister is almost ready to answer that question in the affirmative. For it is because he played the "empty-headed English top" that he has secured parts in 14 pictures during the 15 months he has been here.

FROM HERO TO CLOWN
The actor came to films from the English stage after four years on Broadway.

His first role in talkies, in "Bulldog Drummond," was comic, a coincidence because in London he played the title role with much success.

Subsequent roles with a few exceptions in which he has stood out in straight character parts, notably those of the aged butler in "In the Next Room," and of the spruce gangster heavy in "Czar of Broad-

Coming to the American

MARION DAVIES

As she appears in her newest picture, back in the days of 90—entirely different "The Floradora Girl", which will appear at the American soon.

seilies cafe scene, with a mechanical piano raising its cracked voice above the shouts of men for wine, and more wine—dancing and singing women and the busy activity of commission girls doling out drinks to sailors on carnival, the picture affords Miss Del Rio many opportunities for the exploitation of her many talents.

With Edmund Lowe appearing with her for the first time since they made their memorable appearance in "What Price Glory," Miss Del Rio as "Lita" in "The Bad One" is strongly reminiscent of "Charmaine" in the war story.

Her character is that of a girl thrust into a typical seaport cafe, whose living depends on the exploitation of her charms, the time, twinkling of her eyes and her industry in refilling empty glasses.

In this role the star is obliged to exercise the full emotional range, from coquetry to comedy and wistful moodiness to tragedy when one of her innocent flirtations sets in full motion the machinery of love.

Edmund Lowe is again the character actor he was in "What Price Glory," "In Old Arizona," and "The Cockeyed Woman," though his proficiencies are lacking this time in favor of salty wisecracks.

As the American Don Juan of the seas, whose boast is that he can get any girl in the world, he presents a typical Lowe.

"The Bad One" is a punch story of vivid characters who enact a vital drama of passion and fun amidst the clamor and glamor of the Marseilles waterfront and later climax thrilling entertainment in a thunderous scene showing hundreds of desperate prisoners in revolt.—F. J. W.

A few of the thrillers in the production are:
The encounter with gorillas and the capture of specimens.
Finding of strange creatures apparently half-ape, half-human, which may represent the fabled "missing link."

The colony of low-grade natives in heart of Gorilla country, who make a practice each year of giving a woman to the apes.
The camp of wild women.
The queer half-breed child.
The trapping of leopards.
Weird ceremonies of natives.
Trapping monkeys.
Capture of 65-foot python.
Elephant charge and killing of elephant.
Leopards killed with spears.
Rhinoceros charges directly into camera.

Three lions cornered. Two killed; one mauls hunter who is seven months in hospital as result.
Felling of tree to bring down gorilla—largest ever taken alive.
These are only a few but are enough to prove that "Ingagi"—which means Gorilla in the tongue of Africa—is an exceptional picture of its kind.

The roars of animals at night and the cries of natives may be heard, together with the weird sounds of the tom-toms and the songs of the savages of Central Africa—the heart of the dark continent.

William J. Campbell, noted film expert was engaged by Congo Pictures, Ltd., to assemble and edit the picture in eight reels from thousands upon thousands of feet of exposed film. The result is a thriller from beginning to end and one that is most educational and instructive.—(To be reviewed Tuesday.)

100 DELEGATES TO ASSEMBLE WEEK LATER

Executive Board Will Plan Convention Program. 10-DAY SESSION Proposed New Wage Scale Is Chief Business.

Officers of the National Brotherhood of Operative Potters will leave for Atlantic City, N. J., Saturday to arrange for the annual convention which will open at the seashore resort on Saturday, July 5.

The convention vanguard, representing about 7,500 workers in the generalware and sanitary branches of the industry, will include President James M. Duffy; Secretary-Treasurer John D. McGilfray and Second Vice-President George Chadwick and National Organizer Frank Hull of East Liverpool; Sixth Vice-President Thomas Woods of Sebring and Seventh Vice-President Joshua Chadwick of Newell.

The executive board will open a four day pre-convention session on Monday, June 30. Other members of the board are First Vice-President George H. Cardigan of Trenton; Third Vice-President Louis H. Driber and Fourth Vice-President William S. Davidson all of Trenton and Fifth Vice-President Hugh Church of Tottenville, N. Y.

The convention will be held in the Odd Fellows' hall in New York avenue. It will continue for 10 days or two weeks. More than 100 delegates representing semi-porcelain, chinaware and three sanitary ware locals will attend.

Resolutions, which the operatives will seek to have embodied in the new working pact with the manufacturers to become effective October 1, will be considered at the convention. A two-year agreement, now in effect, will expire September 30.

More than 75 resolutions, the majority for which embodying wage demands have been adopted by the subordinate unions.

AIR RATE GOES UP TWO CENTS

T. A. T. Maddux Lines Increase Fare to Seven Cents a Mile; Traffic Increases.

WELLSVILLE — A rate of seven cents a mile for air travel has been put into effect by the T. A. T. Maddux Air lines. It was announced today, an increase of two cents over the winter rate established January 14.

The low winter rate experiment "proved beyond doubt" the company said, "that it was far, not far" which kept most travelers from using the air line.

Under the winter rates, traffic of the company, which runs in co-operation with the Pennsylvania Railroad company, increased to a point where 18 planes daily are required to carry passengers. Nine of these planes operate in the middle western territory and are used largely by business men in the daily routine traveling. Passengers carried in the first four months of the year totaled almost 15,000.

ATEN NAMED IN LIEN ACTION

Suit Filed by Attorney Raymond Knepper in Behalf of Attorney O. G. Terry, Columbus.

WELLSVILLE — An action to marshal liens has been filed in common pleas court by Attorney Raymond Knepper on behalf of Attorney Orman G. Terry of Columbus, formerly of East Liverpool, against George M. Aten and others. The petition shows that the First National bank of East Liverpool obtained a judgment for $307.50 and costs, and later assigned this to the plaintiff. No goods or chattels were found upon which a levy could be made, but the petition now discloses 11 tracts of real estate in Wellsville in which Aten is interested.

WOMAN GIVEN JAIL SENTENCE

Mrs. Savannah Smith, Midland, Faces Court.

BEAVER — Mrs. Savannah Smith, clored, of Railroad lane, Midland, pleaded guilty in court here Saturday to charge of carrying concealed weapons and pointing firearms. Judge Frank E. Reader suspended sentence on the first charge, but fined her $1 and costs and sentenced her to the Beaver county jail for four months on the second count.

Arrested in Midland last week, Mrs. Smith is alleged to have fired a revolver at Harry Troiliver. J. C. Ballard of East Liverpool, O., pleaded guilty to a charge of operating a motor vehicle while intoxicated and was assessed $200 and costs and given 60 days in jail. If the fine and costs are paid the jail term will be reduced to 15 days. DROPS $25,000 DAMAGE SUIT; ASKS DIVORCE

Columbiana Man Charges Gross Neglect of Duty.

FILES PETITION

James Bennett, Jr., Plaintiff in Court Action.

LISBON — After Robert A. Houser of 48 Woodlawn ave., Columbiana, dismissed at his costs the $25,000 damage suit he filed Feb. 3 last against Joseph Hively, he then filed a petition in divorce against his wife, Annie E. Houser, whom he married at Lebanon, Pa., Sept. 15, 1915. Mrs. Houser is charged with gross neglect of duty. The petition, filed by Attorney A. L. Baker of Alliance, recites that in 1929 the defendant became intimated with Hively and "transferred all her love to him" and that when Mrs. Houser was asked to return to her home that she then informed her husband that she would never live with him again as his wife. The defendant resides at 222 North Main street, Columbiana.

The court permitted the dismissal of the $25,000 damage action against Hively without prejudice to a new action.

James Bennett Jr., through his counsel, Cochran and Crawford of East Liverpool, has filed a divorce petition against his wife, Katherine E. Bennett, whose residence is unknown, and who, according to the pleadings, was ordered to leave East Liverpool by the Municipal court at East Liverpool. The couple were married June 27, 1927, at New Cumberland, W. Va. Infidelity is charged.

Mary Steltz has filed a petition for divorce in common pleas court against her husband, Paul Steltz, R. F. D. No. 2, Leetonia, the petition having been filed by Attorney Robert E. Hall of Lisbon. They were married at Lisbon Dec. 29, 1917. The defendant is charged with extreme cruelty and gross neglect of duty. Mrs. Steltz has set up in her petition that her husband had only given her $11 since Dec. 15. In addition to a decree, alimony and custody of minors is asked.

The divorce action filed Jan. 2, last, by Elva M. Bevan against her husband, John S. Bevan, has been dismissed by the court on motion of the plaintiff and at her costs.

In the divorce action filed by Sarah E. Johnson against her husband, Harry Johnson, the court has granted a decree to Mrs. Johnson on the ground of gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty.

After Elizabeth Sloss obtained a divorce decree from her husband, Arthur E. Sloss of Lisbon, the court ordered the defendant to pay his former wife $8 weekly for the support of a minor child. The case was uncontested, and the decree was obtained on the ground of gross neglect of duty. The custody of a minor child was awarded the plaintiff.

On the ground of gross neglect of duty, Judge W. F. Lores has granted a divorce decree to Mabel E. Whitehead against her husband, Ray Whitehead. The case was uncontested.

WILL CONSIDER REQUEST FOR VENUE CHANGE

Hancock Court To Hear Pugh Application.

ACTION TODAY

Prosecuting Attorney Asks Witnesses Be Presented.

NEW CUMBERLAND — Judge J. Harold Brennan today will hear the application for a change of venue made by David K. Pugh, Gas Valley farmer, who was indicted two weeks ago by the Hancock county grand jury on a charge of felonious assault in the death of his wife, Mrs. Bessie Marshall Pugh, on March 11.

Pugh's attorney, R. L. Ramsey, of Wellsville, filed the petition last Tuesday after the court had overruled his demurrer to the indictment.

Prosecuting Attorney W. W. Ingram of Chester, in opposing the change of venue, demanded that persons signing affidavits in support of Pugh's petition be brought into court for examination.

DR. CORCORAN NEWELL GUEST

Pittsburgh District Superintendent Addresses Methodist Episcopal Members.

NEWELL — Dr. C. W. Corcoran, superintendent of the Pittsburgh District of the Methodist Episcopal church, spoke in the local church last night.

He also spoke before the Epworth league society at its session at 6:45 p. m.

Dr. Corcoran is head of the Pittsburgh "Good-Will industry," which is sponsored by the Methodist churches of the district.

COUNTY HEALTH SHOW PLANNED

Miss Mary Revery, Nurse, To Be In Charge Friday.

NEWELL — A health exhibit will be held in the county health department rooms in the courthouse in New Cumberland in charge of Miss Mary Revery, county health nurse, Friday.

A demonstration will be given by Miss Revery.

Hancock county was the fifth in the state to adopt a county health unit.

Dr. J. E. Fisher, county physician, has been making improvements to the health buildings and department until there are few in the state better equipped.

CALL FARMERS TO MORGANTOWN

University Agriculture Experts To Head Inspection Tour of Experiment Farms.

NEWELL — Approximately 25 farmers and their wives from Hancock county are expected to attend the farmers' field day and picnic which will be held at the agricultural experiment station, West Virginia University, Morgantown, on Oct. 13.

More than 500 farm men and women are expected to visit the trial experiment of the state and its five farms, according to F. D. Fromme, director.

Heads of departments in the college of agriculture, assisted by other members of the faculty of the university, will lead the visitors in a tour of the experimental farms, where they will describe and explain the projects under way.

As August 13 follows immediately after the close of the state fair bureau camp at Jackson's Mills, Lewis county, it is hoped that many farmers from the more distant parts of the state and especially Hancock county will avail themselves of this opportunity to take in both events.

BURCHAM CASE IS APPEALED

Industrial Commission Sued by Mahala Burcham.

LISBON — Attorney Thomas J. Duffy of Columbus, appealing from the decision of the industrial commission in the issue of Mrs. Mahala Burcham, a widow, has filed a petition in common pleas.

John H. Burcham, husband of the appellant, was formerly employed by the Homer Laughlin China Co., and was injured when working about a belt and pulley. He died on May 9, 1928.

The case was presented to the commission which denied the claim. The case will go before the court to determine whether the appellant has a right to participate in the state insurance fund.

Shoemakers Organization

EAST LIVERPOOL, OHIO

1930

Away back in 1918 there came into being among the progressive shoe repair men in East Liverpool an association known as the SHOEMAKERS' ORGANIZATION, whose sole aim and purpose was to establish uniform quality and a stable price list for shoe repairing and rebuilding in this community and to further the mutual interests of its members and their customers.

Thru the intervening years, this organization has continued to grow in size and influence because of the constant efforts of its members to satisfy every patron by giving him his moneys worth in quality materials and workmanship on every pair of shoes.

THE CARD OF THIS ORGANIZATION DISPLAYED IN ANY SHOE REPAIRING PARLOR IS YOUR GUARANTEE OF ABSOLUTE SATISFACTION.

Insurance Man Should Be Well Qualified

Judgment of Agent Important to Buyer

It is Essential That He Know the Business if Client's Interests are to be Protected.

Insurance in its various branches is so essential to modern business and to the home that there are few people who do not have dealings with the insurance companies or their representatives nowadays. These dealings may go all the way from a simple theft and fire insurance on the family Ford to an elaborate provision for a future annuity. In any case there is rather a bewildering choice of forms of policies, and few men are qualified by experience or knowledge to decide which is the best for their use. Most people do not even try to. They tell the insurance agent about what they think they want, and he picks out what appears to him most suitable. Now, this course is all right provided the agent is thoroughly equipped to give the right kind of service. If he is familiar with the various forms of life insurance, if he knows what fire insurance policies apply to the best advantage, and if he is familiar with the kinds of liability insurance that may be had for the automobile or other risks, and then if the companies he represents are strong, financially able to pay their losses and with the right disposition to pay them, well, he is doing his duty. But if the agent should miss on any of these points, the insured might be clear out of luck.

That is the reason, and it is reason enough, surely why the insurance you buy, whether it be life or fire, liability or theft, or any of a hundred forms, should be obtained from an agent that knows his business. Personal attention to the needs of each client, integrity and good judgment—these are essential also. No agency in the community combines these qualifications in greater measure than does C. W. Arnold, at Wellsville. The companies even direct him to do his own adjusting in fire cases. "When about to insure, consult C. W. Arnold," has come to mean, in the last 12 years, that the way to get real insurance of any kind, the best advantage, is to call up Mr. Arnold.

QUICK SERVICE IS CASH SAVER

Finley Brothers, Chester, and Newell Lumber Company Keep Job Moving All the Time.

When a man starts building a house he speedily gets a lot of money tied up in it. That money stays in until the house is completed. Every contractor knows how exasperating delays can occur in the delivery of materials, how men must stand around waiting for this or that, and how much these things can cost.

The supply house that can keep him going is the only safe one to tie to. Orders for material are just as important as the man to set them up. To keep the men busy through a supply of material in time is the secret of economical building.

The Finley Bros. Company and the Newell Lumber Company, at Chester and Newell respectively, have for twenty years been perfecting this kind of service. Carrying in stock at all times a complete supply for builders they take care of the needs of their patrons with an understanding of his troubles and full consideration for them. Promptness in delivery, anticipation of a customer's wants and forethought mark their relations.

TAKES SQUEAL OUT OF RADIO

Philco Develops New Receiving Set Well Shielded From Annoying Interferences.

The radio market is keenly interested in the new Philco Balanced Unit Model 65 using the new A. C. Screen Grid tubes in the radio frequency stages. This new tube gives tremendous amplification as compared with any radio tube ever before produced and has such a low internal capacity that neutralizing devices are unnecessary.

Using the new Screen Grid tube there is no howl or squeal, and the absence of tube or set noises makes the loud speaker as silent as the grave, except when the tuning dial is exactly on a station.

Philco's Balanced Unit chassis Number 65 is a strictly all-electric A. C. 6-tube set, including a full-wave rectifier tube. The detector is a UY227 heater type tube and the audio uses two UX245 power tubes in push-pull.

The use of these tubes in connection with the special Philco push-pull input and output transformers delivers a wonderful tone, pure and clear, with marvelous fidelity that makes the listener think he is in the broadcast studio.

This new Philco Balanced Unit chassis is extraordinarily well shielded, and each and every unit is so carefully and painstakingly matched and balanced at the factory that the set is powerful and ultra-selective.

Distant stations come in with a punch and a clarity that is regulated only by the atmospheric noise level.

R. F. Prescott, Jeweler, 704 St. Clair avenue, has the new Philco Balanced Unit models on display and ready for installation.

Sun Tests Stamina Of Tires

Must be Good to Stand Up in Hot Weather.

Now is the time of year when experience has taught motorists to expect tire trouble. Few indeed are the tires that are put on a tire by hot weather. A well paved road is a surface much like a grindstone, and the tire passes over that surface at a pressure that is probably more than you would apply if you were holding it to the grindstone. To add to the strain, the friction generates a great deal of heat. Given a roadway that the sun has warmed to a temperature of about ninety, pass over it a tire travelling at the rate of fifty miles an hour, and the resultant friction heats the fabric and rubber greatly.

Tiremakers must bear these factors in mind in designing good tires. They must use a composition that will resist the heat, yet possess a toughness that withstands the friction and a strength that repels the pressure of the weight of the car plus the pressure of the expanding air in the tire. The wonder is not that tires give way. The real miracle is that they can be built to resist these factors and deliver from 15,000 miles of service up to double that under such conditions.

Motorists who use the Mohawk tire know that it withstands the utmost hard usage. They know that in its composition and workmanship the utmost durability has been reached without sacrifice of the easy riding qualities. In other

REPAIR WORK IS PROSPERITY AID

Machine Shop Helps to Keep Wheels of Industry on Move in Local District.

An essential service to any community is performed by the well equipped machine shop. The prosperity of any city depends largely on the continuous operation of its factories and its contractors, and upon the machinist often falls the responsibility of quick repair of damaged parts, which all too often mean the idleness of a part of the factory force until this repair can be made.

Very successful in this business of keeping the wheels of industry on the move has been the Erwin Machine Company, located on St. Clair at Broadway. Here, with an equipment that has grown with the service and is large and up to date, the requisite skill is supplied by training and experience, so that the knowledge of how to go about such work is at hand. Skilled men, who have really learned the machinist's trade, do the work in expert confidence.

Repairs are made on light and heavy machinery of all kinds. Factories, workshops and contractors find in this machine shop a place where they can secure results, where the most delicate as well as the strongest machines are handled expertly with quick repair.

DEVELOPMENT JOB PLANNED

CALEXICO—Extensive development of Lower California, both in Northern and Southern districts, is planned for the next few years by the Mexican government, according to General Juan Andrew Almazan, minister of communications and public works in the Mexican cabinet.

Particular attention will be paid to extending good roads, the general said in a visit here over the week-end, emphasizing the need of a good road through Mexico from Mexico to Nogales, and another from Mexico to Tijuana, thence south the full length of the peninsula.

Almazan, at present on a tour of investigation is due back in Mexico City to report his findings, the latter part of this month.

Quality Of Coal High Now

Anderson Advises Purchase in Slow Season.

"Getting your coal in early is just like putting money in the bank," declares W. T. Anderson of the W. T. Anderson Company, located on the east side. "The prices prevailing at this season are lower than they will be again this year, and that means that the money you may invest in coal now is really earning interest."

"In my experience in the coal business, I should say that the quality of the coal shipped now, while the rush is not on at the mines, is likely to be a little better than it is when there is a demand that keeps everybody hustling. Coal miners are only human, and there is a tendency in all humans to alight things a bit when they are rushed. Coal shippers like to get the coal out as early as they can, and, if there is a part of the vein that is a little better than the rest, you can depend upon the fact that it will be worked during the slower season, because dealers then can be a little more particular and insist upon having none but the best to be had."

"The business calls for close attention in this respect. If we are to pass the best of coal along to our customers, we have to be careful to get the best. We have a much wider range of choice now than we have in the fall, when everybody is clamoring for more coal, and while we make every effort that can be made to keep the quality at the top notch all of the time, we are sure of it in the early months."

Laughlin Defeats Potters

Newell Breaks Dead-lock for Second Place.

INDICATING that they are still very much in the fight for the first half pennant, Homer Laughlin clubbers Saturday afternoon triumphed over the Potters' Supply, 5 to 0, at Patterson Field.

The victory broke the second place tie between Laughlin and the Potters and put the West Virginians within a game and a half of the league leading Wilk Bakers.

The Potters and Chester News are now tied for third place with two weeks of play remaining in the half. The Potters and Laughlin have lost the same number of contests but Laughlin has played two more, both victories, to give them the edge.

Chester News and the Potters are but two and one-half games away from the top rung and, it can be readily seen, the race is not over by any means yet.

Simmons, just out of the Newell high school, went the route for the visitors Saturday and held the Potters to seven safe blows, well scattered. The Potters had a chance in the seventh to score at least one run but failed to make the most of base running.

The visitors broke the ice in the third. Finley walked and moved on to Bailey's single. Digman was retired at first. Merchant's sacrifice fly to deep right enabled Finley to count.

Thorne's walk paved the way for the second run in the fourth. Simmons sacrificed him and he scored on Finley's single to left.

Two Laughlin runs crossed the pan in the sixth. After Ash had fanned, Thorne singled to center. Thorne subsequently was forced at second but successive singles by Finley and Bailey drove in two counts. Singles by Watson and Ash and Merchant's sacrifice gave Newell its final tally in the seventh.

Simmons started for the Potters, giving way to Baker in the seventh. Baker was hit in the head as his glove deflected a hard driven ball off Ash's bat in the seventh but after a few minutes out, finished the game.

Dodgers Rally and Down Bucs

Babe Herman Wallops Two Timely Homers.

BROOKLYN, June 23—On the power supplied by terrific slugging in the late innings, the Dodgers came from behind to beat Pittsburgh yesterday, 9 to 6. Babe Herman hit two timely home runs, bringing his total for the season to 15. Frederick also hit a homer off Larry French, who pitched the whole game for Pittsburgh.

Herman's first home run came in the fifth and tied the score at three. The Pirates hit Clark hard and obtained a three-run lead in the sixth and seventh, but Herman hit his second homer in the seventh with two on to tie the score again. French continued to weaken in the eighth when Wright's single, a double by Lopez and Frederick's homer featured another three-run attack.

Dodgers Continue Hot Pace

Cubs Threaten But Slip Back Notch.

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
CONSIDERING the closeness of the rivalry among the National league clubs, the tenure of Brooklyn as leader of the circuit is something really remarkable. The Robins, who caused something of a surprise when they first gained the top, have shown the way to their rivals for nearly a month despite numerous threats to their security. After various ups and downs, the Robins took the lead at the end of May and have not been displaced since.

In the past two days, the Chicago Cubs, who have been right on Brooklyn's heels, had a big chance to assume the lead after Brooklyn had tossed a few games through careless fielding. But the Robins tightened up and won three contests while the Cubs failed to stand the strain of pursuit and dropped to 2½ games behind yesterday with a 3-2 defeat at the hands of the Boston Braves while Brooklyn was downing Pittsburgh, 9 to 6.

The costly Robin errors disappeared suddenly when first place was in danger while Robin batters swung into effective action. Brooklyn came from behind yesterday, paced by two home runs by Babe Herman and one by Johnny Fredrick, to score six runs in the seventh and eighth innings off Larry French, Plate pitcher. The Cubs made two homers off the delivery of Fred Frankhouse, recent Boston acquisition, and one of them was Hack Wilson's 21st of the season, but they could not get any other counters while the Braves' ten hits scored in three different innings.

The New York Giants picked up a game on the Cubs, remaining three games behind, by putting on a performance similar to Brooklyn's. The Giants seemed to feel it necessary to perform in the traditional manner as Cincinnati celebrated Benjie Fey day. They got to Benjie Fey at a time and took a 4-1 decision from the Reds. The St. Louis Cardinals attained a .500 average again by taking two games from Philadelphia. The Cards slouted 33 hits against five Phillies pitchers to win by scores of 12 to 3 and 9 to 3. Flint, Rhem and Burleigh Grimes, the latter making his first start for St. Louis, held the Phillies well under control.

The Detroit Tigers altered the American league standing a bit by winning a pair of games from the Boston Red Sox, 5 to 3 and 4 to 2. The double triumph, while St. Louis was dividing a twin bill with the New York Yankees, put the Tigers into fifth place. Detroit had good pitching and "the breaks," scoring all of its runs off Milton Gaston in the first game in one inning without earning one. A homer by Gehringer provided the margin in the short second contest.

Despite their even break, the Yankees picked up a half game on the leading Philadelphia Athletics, who moved to Cleveland for Sunday and dropped the final contest to the Indians, 4 to 2. Wes Ferrell broke Cleveland's losing streak, holding the champions to seven hits. The Yankees had as much luck as Detroit. They scored all their runs in one inning to win the first game, 5 to 4, after Gullie had not made the side. But the Yanks could not make their 12 hits count in the second contest and lost by a 5 to 2 count.

Washington, with Ad Liska pitching a five-hit game and Art Shires leading the attack on his old team with three blows that drove in four runs, made an even greater advance by trouncing the Chicago White Sox, 10 to 3. They picked up a full game on the Athletics, resting 12 games behind the leaders and only a half game behind the Yankees.

By LATHROP MACK, ASSOCIATED PRESS SPORTS WRITER
COLUMBUS, O., June 21.—The Ohio amateur golf championship goes on the block at the Toledo Country club this week at the 27th annual tournament of the Ohio State Golf association.

Lack of an outstanding favorite adds interest to the affair although the defending champion, Young Johnny Florio of the Elks' club at Columbus, will make as strong a bid as any in defense of the title he won at Canton last July. Florio has made an inauspicious start in tournament play this season but has been saving his bolt for the state amateur, where it will do him the most good.

Florio being the third Columbus golfer to win the title in the last three years, the best players from all over the state will be on hand to attempt to break the monopoly held by the Capital City. Among them, for the first time, will be 16 accredited representatives of public links golfers from all six districts of the O. S. G. A. Heretofore public linksmen have either been barred from the meet or admitted indiscriminately up to the last moment of teeing off. Last year officials voted first to bar them and then to admit them because notice of their first action had

ALLIANCE DRY AGENTS 'FIRED'

Brothers Discharged By State After Accident.

NELSONVILLE, O., June 23.—Russell and Eugene Shearer, Alliance brothers, today stood discharged as state prohibition agents, as the result of their arrest after a girl bounced from their automobile and was seriously hurt near here yesterday.

The girl, Frances Green, Doanville, suffered severe scalp wounds and a possible fracture of the skull when, police said, she was jolted from the agents' car as it hit a bump. Russell Shearer pleaded guilty to driving while intoxicated and was fined $700 and costs and prohibited from driving a car for six months. An intoxication charge against Eugene Shearer was withdrawn and he was released. Oscar Triplet, who said he was working under the direction of the Shearers, was fined $10 and costs for intoxication.

Deputy State Prohibition Commissioner A. V. Aldrich of Columbus paid the Shearers' fines and then discharged them from the service, saying it was against the policy of the department for agents to have dealings with women. Three other girls besides Miss Green were riding with the men at the time of the accident, police said.
